UNIVERSITY OF RHODE ISLAND

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1961

VOL. LVII NO. 3

New Dorm Violates State Fire Rules

One hundred and thirty-five men students at URI are presently living in a new dormitory that violates both the building code of South Kingstown and the fire laws of the State of Rhode Island.

While the university is not required to get a certificate of occupancy from the town building inspector, which is the procedure required for private dwellings including fraternities on campus, it does come under the state fire laws' jurisdiction.

An inspection of the partially occupied men's dormitory revealed that loose boards have been substituted for stair treads, exposed wiring exists in corridors and lavatories and exists are unlighted and cluttered with building material. Also, no fire alarm system is in operation as required in all dormitories and hotels.

The new dormitory, as yet unnamed, is located west of Butterfield Hall. General contractor is the Argentieri Construction Co. of Providence. According to terms of the contract, the company is liable to a penalty of $100 per day from Sept. 1 until the building is completed. Earlier this month the construction firm blamed bad weather and labor troubles for the delay.

Dr. Francis H. Horn, university president, said that the situation is temporary and that the building should be completed within a few weeks. "We had the choice of housing these students in the uncompleted dormitory or of denying them entrance to the college this year," he explained. "We are not happy with the situation and know the students aren't either." Dr. Horn did not say why temporary lights had not been installed in the stairwells but did say that the building had not been officially accepted from the contractor.

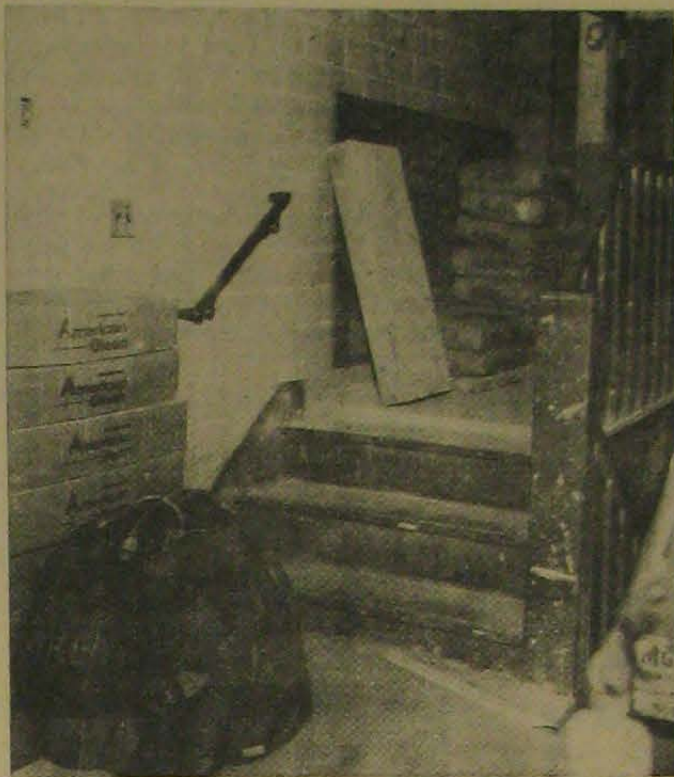

Thornton McClure, university business manager, said that the university tries to meet requirements of the South Kingstown building code even though it is not required to do so. Under the local code, occupancy of the building would not be permitted.

Aggie Ball Set For October 11

The 42nd annual Aggie Ball will be held next Wednesday, Oct. 11 in Keaney Gym from 9 to 12:30 p.m. The dress is semi-formal and flowers are optional. Ralph Stuart's orchestra will provide the music.

Queen candidates have been nominated by their housing units. The candidates are: Susan Ann Block, Sigma Delta Tau; Patricia Chmura, Peck Hall; Irene Fontaine, Alpha Chi Omega; Martha Garriepy, Alpha Epsilon Phi; Pamela Gaton, Tucker House; Susan Hallan, Beta Epsilon; Paula Heister, Chi Omega; Janice Mattson, Eleanor Roosevelt Hall; Macy Joan Minnis, Commuter's Lounge; Stephanie O'Brien, Sigma Kappa; Claire Paquin, Delta Delta Delta; Dee Shuster, Delta Zeta; Linda Sinkinson, Hutchinson Hall; Tina Stone, East Resident Hall; Mary Turrissi, Alpha Delta Pi and Charlotte Villa, Alpha Xi Delta.

Candidates will be introduced at the New Hampshire game this Saturday. Their pictures will be on display in the Memorial Union. Tickets may be purchased at the door, at the Union desk, from any Agricultural Club member, or from the Queen candidates during the lunch hour at Lippitt Hall.

Frat Council Lists Two Rule Infractions

by Fred Spooner

The Interfraternity Council received two complaints from the administration against Tau Kappa Epsilon and Tau Epsilon Phi, at its meeting last Monday.

The Narragansett Police reported to the administration that Tau Kappa Epsilon held an illegal party off campus following the Maine game last Saturday. The campus police reported that Tau Epsilon Phi held a hazing or near-hazing during the evening on Sept. 21 at Keaney Gym. The administration was particularly concerned because on that night the campus was on the alert for hurricane Esther.

David Boylan, president of the IFC, said that hazing of any form is against the rules of the university and the IFC. He said that pledge training should be carried on within the fraternity house.

Action on these complaints was deferred until executive officers, David Ricereto and Douglas Wells, could attend.

Mr. Boylan announced that the IFC executive council is trying to start inter-house executive council meetings. This may help the fraternities in their mutual house-keeping problems.

Complaints have also been received that fraternities have been cutting trees on private property for torches in the rally parades.

The colonization of a new fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon, was announced at the meeting.

John Jay To Speak On 'Olympic Holiday'

John Jay, ski photographer, author and commentator from Williamstown, Mass. will speak at an illustrated lecture sponsored by the URI Memorial Union outing committee next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Edwards Hall.

Mr. Jay will show a color sound film, "Olympic Holiday," showing the Squaw Valley winter olympics, ski holidays in St. Moritz, Alaska, Aspen and Mt. Baker.

Admission for URI and high school students is 50 cents. For other persons the fee is $1.

URI Receives Federal Funds

Official approval of four federal grants totaling $343,878 for health research facilities at URI was announced recently by Dale R. Lindsay, chief of the division of research grants of the National Institute of Health of Bethesda, Md.

According to university information, $217,035 is for construction and fixed equipment, $52,015 for movable equipment at the new health science building, $65,728 for construction and fixed equipment and $9100 for movable equipment for sanitary engineering facilities in Bliss Hall.

Bliss Hall will be renovated next spring at a cost of about $271,000, of which $196,000 will come from state funds, a university spokesman said. The facilities and equipment provided by the federal grant of $74,828 will be used for research in the abatement and control of water and air pollution.

In the 1960 bond issue referendum Rhode Island voters approved $1,500,000 for construction of the health science building. The federal grants of $269,045 will be used for additional research facilities.

interested in seeing that a degree of social reforms, i.e., income tax, social security and land reform, exists in Syria. These were the new laws instituted by the Nasser regime.

Abolishing these reforms will please the higher classes in Syria but will distress the masses. (Nasser's nationalization laws that the new government criticized affected about four per cent of the people). This will create an atmosphere of discontent which makes it easier for the Communists to infiltrate. It is no surprise that the Syrian Communist party attacked the U.A.R. since its beginning. Not only had Nasser outlawed its activities and kept a watchful eye on its members but also he instituted an atmosphere of gradual reform which made it difficult for the Communists to regain their prominent place in Syrian politics (Khaled Bakdash, the Communist party leader in the Middle East fled to Moscow after the birth of the U.A.R.)

Arab nationalism also received a setback. Any movement toward unification is beneficial since it strengthens the Arab's political and economic position. Any single Arab state by itself does not have the prestige, economic viability or political strength that a unified Arab nation will have. Nasser's efforts, so far, have been dedicated to this cause.

The accusation that he wants personal ambition and domination of other Arabs is absurd. The Arabs themselves want unity and they have in common as much as the American settlers had when they established the United States. Since Egypt is the strongest, biggest and strategically located, it is only natural that it leads this movement. No exploitation or domination is intended. Few people know that Egypt has been subsidizing the Syrian treasury for the last four years at the rate of 37 million dollars a year.

It is sobering to remember what Nasser said to a Cairo rally last week. "This is a setback to the course of Arab unity but it should not discourage us. The genuine desire to form one Arab nation will eventually materialize. The road, however, is long and difficult. The unifications of Germany and Italy and the Civil War in the U. S. were costly undertakings and the Arabs should not expect any lighter price for their ambitious goal."

Panhel Visiting Day Opens Rush Season

Approximately 250 new women students visited sororities on campus Sunday, Sept. 24, participating in a Round Robin sponsored by the URI Panhellenic Association. Ten sororities, were visited by 10 groups throughout the afternoon.

The Round Robin marked the beginning of the free association phase of rushing. During this period, sorority women will visit rushees in the dorms, provided at least two sororities are represented. Rushees cannot enter the sororities until Dec. 3, the beginning of formal rush week.

U. A. R. Split Seen Adverse To West, Arabian Interests

by Dr. M. Ezedin Batroukha

(Dr. Batroukha, URI assistant professor of journalism, covered the office of President Gamal Abdel Nasser as reporter for the Egyptian daily Al Ahram.)

The recent events in the United Arab Republic are inimical to Western and Arab nationalism's interests. The establishment of an ultra-conservative, reactionary government in Syria is not in the best interests of either. The Nasser brand of socialism benefited the great majority of Syrians although it may have alienated a small group of landowners, big merchants and wealthy businessmen. It aimed at bridging the gulf between the very rich and the very poor. The new Syrian government has already announced its intention to do away with these reforms. This means that the old feudal reactionary group will regain their influence. This is how the Western interests are in danger now. I am presuming, of course, that the West is

ROTC Names DMS Honors

Twenty-three URI students in the advanced ROTC program have been designated Distinguished Military Students for the current academic year, according to special orders issued by Col Elisha O. Peckham, URI professor of military science.

Three seniors who will complete their degree requirements in January and then be commissioned second lieutenants are Michael R. Grille, William F. Newman and John Sheridan.

Others designated DMS students are Paul A. Croce, Richard E. Gagnon, John A. Gauthier, Clifford D. Leitao, Dennis N. Mennerich, A. L. Najjar, Gjon N. Nivia and Joseph A. Puzello.

Also, Alan A. Briery, David J. DeFanti, Donn C. Drummond, David R. Dunn, Kenneth M. Johnson, Joseph F. Parise and Douglas E. Wells Jr.

Also, Robert W. Matje, Arthur H. Pritchard, David J. Ricereto, Philip J. Saudnier and Robert H. Sproul.

Who Do They Think They Are?

A university is built upon many foundations, one of the most important of which is tradition. Buildings, educational requirements and cultural advantages may fluctuate and change, but tradition remains as the stabilizing force reminiscent of years past.

The main source of tradition with which the university is now confronted is freshman tradition—beanies, the Alma Mater, Ben Butler and the rest.

The attitude of the freshman class, as a whole, as regards the freshman traditions has been a disappointment to the upperclassmen. The freshmen have acted snobbishly and curiously and have had no qualms about talking back to any upperclassmen, especially the Vigilantes who have been working on the enforcement of the freshman traditions. The freshmen seem to feel that it is their place to push, not to be led.

We wonder who the freshmen think they are. They act as if wearing beanies were beneath them. Since when are these students so great? After all, they are only freshmen and should realize their place on campus as the lowest class. Their swelled heads should have been left in high school.

Of course, all the blame for the disappointment with the freshmen does not necessarily stem from the freshmen alone. The Vigilante group also is at fault, in many instances, for harassing and agitating the freshmen to the point where being a freshman is no longer a happy experience, but a chore. The Vigilantes are supposed to enforce the traditions and command respect, but they have failed to do so. What element is missing in the Vigilantes is not apparent, although lack of understanding of their real purpose is obvious in several cases. Too many Vigilantes fit into the "too much power, too little knowledge" category.

It is a shame that the attitude of many individual freshmen has gotten the freshman class, as a whole, off to a bad start. This trend must stop immediately. It is a disgrace to the university.

Unsatisfactory Dormitory Situation

The present housing situation on campus is deplorable. It is beyond anyone's comprehension why the administration, with its professed concern for the well-being of the student, can allow—or even tolerate—the unhealthy and hazardous conditions existing in the basement of Adams and in the new men's dormitory.

The barrack system is fine in the Army, but in a university any housing area where there is insufficient ventilation—and what little is obstructed by draped clothing because of a lack of space, yet—is definitely undesirable. The fact that 50 men must sleep in the same room does present its problems but adequate storage space should be provided. This would have at least made the cramped quarters a little more liveable and breatheable. For these reasons, we feel the students are justified by their inquiry as to what they are paying $175 per semester for.

Regarding the fire hazards that are evident in the new dormitory, we feel they are truly unfortunate. Our own investigations of the building gave us cause to wonder what would happen to the students living on the second floor in the event of some emergency. We shudder to think about it. Some concern for the students' welfare should have been taken by the construction company, but when they failed, the university should have seen that some safety precautions were undertaken—that the stairwells and exits were not cluttered. Most important of all, however, the university should have seen to it that at least the fire alarm system was in working order. Nothing was done.

It is a little too late now to try to undo the wrong, but the university is growing and will continue to grow and there will be many new buildings going up. We hope it will profit from the lessons it has learned today.

Band's Performance Reflects Improvement

The anticipation and excitement surrounding the new University Band paid off this weekend for the members of the campus community who watched the 100-member band perform at half-time at the football game.

The band gave a performance which, for as long as we can remember, has never been duplicated at URI in skill and execution. The hours of practice and drill for the band members paid off in a well-executed, well-presented show of animated musical formations.

We wish to congratulate Mr. Donald Burns, the band director, on his success with the group. He deserves a great deal of praise and appreciation for raising such a promising band out of the almost hopeless band situation he faced when he came to campus last year.

The band is a real credit to the university. We hope it will continue to be the source of pleasure and spirit it was last weekend.

India Seen in Struggle Toward Democratic Life: Smith

India is involved in a fateful struggle in attempting to lead her people to prosperity through democratic methods, said Dr. Donald Smith of the URI political science department at a Union coffee hour last Thursday. If India can raise the standard of living, there is a good chance that the whole area will not fall to Communism, Dr. Smith said.

Dr. Smith replaced the scheduled speaker, Prof. William Hamilton of Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, who was unable to attend because of illness in his family.

Dr. Smith said democracy, which is primarily a western form of government, remained in the area for 10 years after the European masters had relinquished their colonies. By 1948 many military regimes were set up and the essence of democracy was gone, he said.

Dr. Smith said democracy still exists in India. The country stands alone in their defiance of the preconditions such as a standard of living, an educated population and urbanization, he said.

The religious-cultural aspect of the society ultimately declares that there is no individual, Dr. Smith said. Despite this, democracy is surviving and doing considerably well, he said.

Dr. Smith said Nehru's party has such a dominant voice in the government that it is almost a one-party rule. He said this has brought stability to India and a continuity of leadership; however, he said he hoped a strong opposition party would develop.

Dr. Smith said he thought the courts of India and the judicial review had been the bulwark of strength in protecting the rights of the individual by declaring some parts of India's constitution unconstitutional.

Asian democracy may lead to a real upheaval if the new political consciousness isn't satisfied, Dr.

Smith said. There is a demand for a rapid change and the key to the change is economic development. There is reason for optimism in that India is becoming secularized, modernized and industrialized, he said.

While speaking at a Christian Association-Canterbury Association meeting in the Union last Thursday evening, Dr. Smith again questioned the possibility of India's becoming a true secular state.

It is a complex situation because traditionally religion and the modern state cover every aspect of life, Dr. Smith said. As far as history is concerned, religion immediately comes to mind when one speaks of India because intellectual and cultural life is moulded by religion, he said.

Dr. Smith questioned the possibility of a separation of church and state in India in the 20th century since the countries surrounding her are moving in the opposite (Continued on Page Four)

The Freshmen Speak

Question: Do you feel that the Vigilantes are the best method of enforcing freshman traditions?

Carolyn Hanley, Y Dorm—best way of enforcing traditions... best to go along with beanies.

Cathy Sherman, Y Dorm—some Vigilantes give the freshmen a hard time... wearing beanies is a good freshman tradition.

Tom Dombrowski, Bressler—nothing wrong with the traditions are enforced by sophomores make good Vigilantes because they are familiar with freshman problems.

Irene Agostinelli, Commuter—Vigilantes are best way to enforce rules... freshmen have to wear beanies for too long a time.

Carol Owen, Commuter—traditions should be enforced... attitudes of some male Vigilantes very poor.

Seniors Urged to Take the Federal Service Entrance Exam

Detailed information concerning the 1962 Federal Service Entrance Examination has been received at the Placement Office, Professor Raymond H. Stockard, director of placement, announced recently.

The FSEE is the principal channel for seniors and graduates who wish to learn about non-technical positions in the U. S. Civil Service. Salaries begin at $4345 or $5355 per year, depending on the qualifications of the candidate. Positions filled from the examination include trainee claims representatives, management analysts, supply specialists, revenue officers and customs inspectors.

"Even though a student has not thought about federal employment, I suggest that he take this examination," said Professor Stockard. "It's like applying to 60 possible employers at once. Taking the examination involves only a small investment of time and, because the government has so many different kinds of work, it could produce a job never heard of, but which might be right for you," he said.

"Every senior whose leave plans for after graduation are not yet settled should take the FSEE, even though he may want to look in other directions at the same time," said Professor Stockard.

The examination will be held seven times during the school year. Students who apply by Nov. 8 will take the examination on Nov. 18.

"Because of the large volume of applications received by the Civil Service Commission, it is to your advantage to take the examination early in the school year," Prof. Stockard said.

Entomologist Accepts Honduras Post

Dr. Harry L. Hansen, URI extension entomologist and assistant professor of entomology in the college of agriculture since 1958, has joined the Central American research staff of Standard Fruit and Steamship Company, it was announced recently.

In his new assignment, Dr. Hansen will serve as entomologist in charge of insect investigations and control at the firm's laboratories in the Republic of Honduras. Dr. Hansen will depart on Oct. 15.

During his three years at URI, Dr. Hansen served as state apiary inspector in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture and Conservation. He has been state survey entomologist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's research service.

Dr. Hansen is the author and co-author of many spray guide publications prepared to assist R. I. homeowners and commercial growers.

Dr. Hansen, 36, a native of San Francisco, received his degree from the University of California at Berkeley. Prior to URI, he was on the University of West Virginia staff.

Colony Established

A colony of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity was established at URI last Thursday. The fraternity was invited to the campus last May by the Dean of Men's office. There was an informational meeting then, but because of lack of time, there was nothing organized.

A meeting this semester was attended by 40 interested students and Mr. Sherrer, staff representative for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

A nucleus of 16 men were pledged to the colony and temporary officers were elected. The colony will participate in rushing with the other fraternities.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded at the University of Richmond, Va. in 1901. The fraternity encompasses 152 chapters in 42 states.

Scroll Coffee Hour

Scroll will sponsor a coffee hour Monday, Oct. 9 at 4 p.m. in the Union lounge. Dr. Richard Griffith of the URI English Department will speak on "Love in the Middle Ages."

Dr. Griffith is a student of middle English literature. During this summer, he visited Spain, England, France and Germany gathering material for a text on middle English poetry and poetics.

'Kareer Klinik' October 10

Phi Sigma, the campus honorary biological society, will conduct a "Kareer Klinik" next Tuesday, Oct. 10, in Ranger Hall, Room 103. Discussing career opportunities in their respective fields will be Dr. Phillip Carpenter, medical technology; Dr. Leonard Worthen, pharmacy; Dr. David Pratt, marine biology; and Dean William Wiley, agricultural science.

An informal tea, to be held on the fourth floor of Ranger Hall at 4 p.m., will precede the main program beginning at 4:30. All students, particularly freshmen, who have not yet decided upon a career are invited to attend.

Peace Corps Examinations To Be Held

Peace Corps examinations will be given on Saturday, Oct. 7 at 8:30 a.m., announced Dr. Harold W. Browning, vice-president of the URI and Peace Corps campus liaison officer.

The Rhode Island examinations will be given at the main post offices in Narragansett and Newport and at the Federal Building, Room 502, in Providence, he said.

Future examinations are scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 30 and Friday, Dec. 1.

Dr. Browning said that Peace Corps literature will be available later to students in his office in the Administration Building, room 209.

A Peace Corps representative is expected to visit the campus in October or November, he said.

New Infirmary Hours Announced

The Infirmary will be open between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. Monday through Friday and 8 a. m. to 12 noon Saturday.

Acute illness or emergency cases may report at any time.

Doctor's Hours:
10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 3:30 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. Monday through Friday; 11 a. m. to 12 noon Saturdays.

From The Senate Chamber

by Grace Digange

At the Student Senate meeting held Monday night, the Senate voted in favor of removing the attendance fine system for the remainder of the time in which the present Constitution will be in effect. Fines levied last spring, however, will still be in effect. If this causes a serious decrease in attendance, President Mollica stated, a new resolution concerning a quorum may have to be considered.

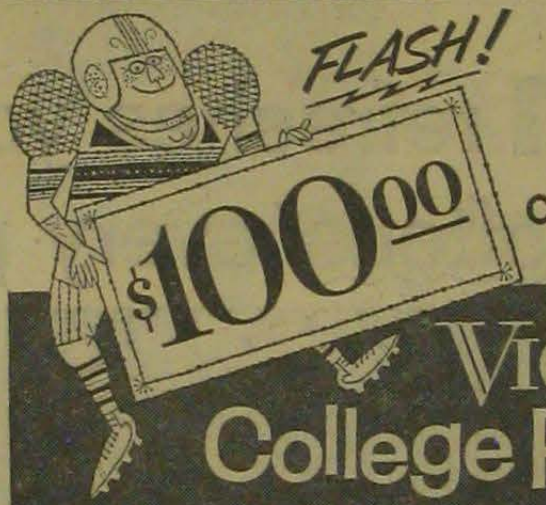

Gary Koenig, who is chairman of a committee which is looking into the moral problems on campus presented a few ideas to the Senate on its purpose and aims. The committee is now in student hands. The Senate is not directly involved. Those on the Committee are housing presidents and other student leaders invited by Dean Quinn to be members. The committee is working on possibly exerting some type of positive solution.

After speaking to Dean Quinn and Dr. Browning, Donald Budlong reported on the recent administrative policy to drop courses in which less than ten people enrolled.

Dean Quinn said that this policy is in common with most schools in which less than 5,000 are enrolled. Also, special cases will be considered. Dr. Browning said that Governor Nott's Austerity Program was not the cause for ruling on this.

Lonnie Torman proposed that there be more faculty advisors on Senate. The Senate will approach faculty members concerning this.

On Campus

by Missie deRosa

Not only are scholastic activities well under way, but weekend activities are also finding their way onto campus calendars. These activities range from football games to Vic dances to Formals and are plentiful in the months of October and November. With the arrival of one of these social events arises the never ending problem of what to wear, a dilemma which confronts the upperclass women as well as the Freshmen women. With this in mind I shall choose some campus events and give you a general idea of the attire worn to them.

As we all know, football games are once again here. With the first home game behind us, we can look forward to the Brown game and Homecoming as the two other major football events. Aside from the previously mentioned games, the attire for the forthcoming home football games is spectator sportswear. For Brown and Homecoming dressy sportswear is worn. Suits, wool sheaths, coats and heels being the most comfortable and generally preferred. The parties following the games, are, for the most part dressy occasions. Simple cocktail dresses or dressier wool outfits are quite appropriate. Do not plan to wear an outfit which will take too much preparation since the time between the game and the parties is often limited.

Vic dances are very popular on campus and are quite enjoyable. Classwear is the most prevalent attire for these casual dances, but may vary slightly with the individual fraternity sponsoring the dance. It may be noted that Saturday night Vic dances are dressier than those held on Friday evenings. In accordance with this, flats or "heels" should be substituted for loafers, sneakers, etc., keeping the rest of your attire along classwear lines.

Another major event coming up very shortly is the Aggie Ball. Amidst the picturesque autumn background you will find an array of colorful frocks. The most suitable dresses worn on this occasion vary from cocktail dresses to short formals according to personal preference. As extra accessories gloves and a purse are worn. Flowers are optional.

The University Theatre presents numerous plays throughout the semester and in turn provides another all campus social event. For Thursday evening performances classwear attire is again suitable, while weekend performances call for "heels" and attire along the lines of dressy sportswear and "basics."

As you may have gathered from the above, or by experience, aside from a few formal or semi-formal events, Rhody is a casual campus. This does not mean casual in the sense of sloppy or haphazard dress, but as informal dress. When the question again arises as to what to wear, consider the occasion, what looks well on, what you feel comfortable in and above all remember that neatness stands out!

Newman Club Hosts New England Conf.

The URI Newman Club was host last weekend to the New England Province of Newman Clubs at a conference on campus.

Receptionists for the affair were Rev. Edmund C. Micarelli, chaplain; Arthur Hebert, president and Gertrude Davis, social chairman. Among the guests at the conference was URI student John Kenny, vice chairman of Internal Affairs for the New England group.

The club held its first meeting of the year last Thursday night in Independence Hall. Joseph MacAndrew, a distributor of the "Providence Journal-Bulletin" and domestic and international traveling agent, spoke on "The Importance of Being Human."

direction. In Pakistan one must be a Muslim in order to be President, he said. There can be no legislation contrary to the Koran, the official bible of the Islamic religion. Just recently, in Burma, a bill was passed making Buddhism the official state religion, Dr. Smith noted.

The speaker said that some answers lie in Hinduism, the religion of the majority of the Indian people. There is no religion which is less organized, he said. There is nothing comparable to a permanent clergy; thus, there is no force strong enough to compete or make demands upon the state.

Hinduism has had a tolerant attitude toward religious diversity,

URI Ranks First at Exposition

The URI dairy cattle judging team took first place in the Jersey judging competition at the Eastern States Exposition recently, finishing ahead of Cornell and Penn State universities. The team is sponsored by the university showman's club.

John Powell, a junior in the URI College of Agriculture, took second place in the individual placings in the Jersey contest, with Ronald Osofsky, a senior, finishing third.

The URI judging team ended up sixth in a field of 13 teams from eastern colleges in the annual contest. David Hall, a URI senior, finished 14th in the individual placing in a field of 39 competitors. Dr. William M. Etgen, professor of animal and science and coach of the URI team, said the performance was the best recorded in recent years, a URI entry. Besides the New England state universities, teams represented Ohio State, Virginia, Virginia Polytechnic, Delaware Valley College, Science and Agriculture.

The other member of the team was Robert Anson Jr., a senior in the College of Agriculture. As the ranking squad in the competition, each URI member received a miniature trophy and college took possession of the trophy.

Dr. Etgen said the College of Agriculture team ranked among New England state universities entered in the contest. University of New Hampshire finished first in the regional. Mr. Hall was one of five competitors tied for second place in individual placings for the Swiss cattle judging.

Studies of the Radiation In U.S. 'Deplorable' Says Dr. Schaefer

by Walter Devanas

Immunity to radiation through medicine, although not an accomplished fact, is possible and is being investigated further, said Dr. Hermann J. Schaefer, professor of biophysics at the United States Naval School of Aviation Medicine, at a zoology colloquium in Ranger Hall last week.

Dr. Schaefer explained that there are some medicines which have the potential to counteract radiation deterioration to cellular structures in the mammalian body, but they are highly toxic and not practical.

Scientists have speculated that since particular animals have been observed to recover from radiation dosage more rapidly than other animals, there may be an enzyme which produces immunity, he said.

The amount of radiation that an astronaut would receive when traveling through the Van Allen Belt is of prime concern to designers of rockets and scientists, he said. The Van Allen Belt is a layer of concentrated radiation 80,000 feet above the earth. Scientists are experimenting to determine how much of a lead shield would adequately protect an astronaut, Dr. Schaefer said.

The speaker said that it was "deplorable" that the United States has made no scientific studies of the increased radiation in the atmosphere caused by the recent thermonuclear explosions in the Soviet Union.

He felt that 1964 would be a "good year" to attempt to send a manned rocket to the moon. The radiation in the Van Allen Belt is directly proportionate to the sunspot cycle and every 9 to 11 years there is an increase in sunspot activity which results in increased radiation in the belt. The next lull in activity is due in 1964, he explained.

Dr. Schaefer is a graduate of the University of Frankfurt and the Institute of Technology at Darmstadt. He is head of the biophysics department at the Naval School of Aviation Medicine and has been in the United States at Pensacola, Florida since 1948.

Be An Individual, Freshmen Advised

URI freshmen were urged to think independently, express themselves freely and become individuals by Dr. Eugene C. Winslow, professor of chemistry at URI, at the first freshman convocation in Edwards Hall last Thursday.

Dr. Winslow advised students to regard themselves as intellectuals and to make use of the various functions on campus such as visiting scholar lectures and the music series in order to broaden themselves. Students should have confidence in their ability. They should think positively and not be defeatists, he said. The trend today seems to be to give college students a lot of tender loving care, he added.

Dr. Winslow urged students not to be pessimistic about world con-

"Band Style USA" at Game Saturday

"Band Style, USA," is the title of next Saturday's half-time entertainment by the URI Band. The band will begin its performance with a precision marching routine to "Wooden Soldiers." The band's twirlers and flag girls will be featured in a dance routine to "Mack the Knife."

The band will play the "Chevy Song" to an automobile formation and will do a spoof on the ivy league colleges while playing the "Whiffenpoof Song." The URI Fight Song will top off the afternoon's entertainment.

In the performance, the band will imitate the style of college bands in other sections of the country, featuring a different section in each number.

Last week, the field hockey honor club held its first meeting under its new manager, Dolly O'Connor. It was decided to have practices on both Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 p.m. Any girls who are interested in joining are urged to contact Dolly at B. E. A demonstration field hockey game held last Thursday from 5 to 6 proved to be an exciting start to the field hockey season.

Junior Orchestras also held their first meeting at Rodman last Wednesday from 5 to 6. It still isn't too late for anyone else to join, so be sure to come this Wednesday. Miss Yosepian announced last week that an all-male dance group will be starting very soon. Any male who is interested is asked to contact Miss Yosepian for further information.

R. Steiner Named To URI Aggie Post

Robert J. Steiner of East Hadam, Conn., has been named URI assistant agricultural editor, it was announced recently.

Mr. Steiner received his B.S. from the University of Connecticut in 1952, and a 5th Year Certificate in agricultural education there in 1955.

Mr. Steiner has served as New England field editor for the "American Agriculturist," a northeastern farm paper, and has taught vocational agriculture for five years in Connecticut.

Mr. Steiner is a member of the American Agricultural Editors Association. He replaces Alexander R. Gavitt Jr., who left to become news editor at the University of Connecticut.

John Birch Society Member Will Speak

A student organization at URI has invited a Rhode Island member of the John Birch Society to address a meeting on campus. The Scroll, university literary society, announced recently that Norman D. MacLeod will speak at its meeting in the Memorial Union Oct. 24.

Mr. MacLeod's talk will be titled "The Place of the John Birch Society in American Freedom."

David Kevorkian, Scroll president, reported that over 400 students and faculty attended last week's coffee hour to hear Dr. James Brasch of the English department speak on "The Significance of Ernest Hemingway."

Football Team Loses to Maine As Rams Open at Home Field

by Jerry Sunshine

The URI Rams, playing their home opener before 3,500 fans, bowed to the University of Maine last Saturday, 22-20. It was Maine's second consecutive victory, having beaten Army's "B" team two weeks ago, and URI's second loss.

Maine was in complete control throughout the first half of the game. They went 35 yards for their first touchdown when Mike Pariseau, the Rams starting quarterback, kicked a short punt. Manch Wheeler, Maine's quarterback, and Dave Cloutier, left half-back, provided most of the damage. When it was first down and goal to go on the URI three-yard line, the latter's defensive line braced and held for three plays. On the fourth, Wheeler threw a short pass to Joel Densmore for the touchdown.

Soon after, Hank Kapusinsky kicked the ball off the side of his foot, and Maine, once again, was deep in URI territory. Six plays later, Walt Beaulieu scored from the one-yard line. Later in the same period, Kapusinsky made a key interception in his own end zone to prevent another Maine score.

Shortly after the second half kickoff, Kapusinsky again intercepted a Wheeler pass and ran it back to Maine's four-yard line. Frank Finizio gained three yards over center and Charlie Vento then scored on a quarterback sneak. The conversion was missed as Glen Woodbury tried to run it over.

Vic Mancini recovered a Maine fumble a few minutes later on Maine's 22-yard line and Rhody was in scoring position again. Co-captain Bob Hoder scored the touchdown on a pass from Vento. Once again the two-point conversion was missed.

Rhody's line held on the next series of plays and Maine was forced to punt. Densmore, on his own 13-yard line, got the kick away but Rhody was penalized for roughing the kicker. On the first play from scrimmage, Cloutier went through the right side of the line and headed downfield on a 56-yard touchdown run. Maine's Roger Boucher, who had kicked two previous points, was ready to kick this one, but the pass from center went over his head. Manch Wheeler picked up the ball on the 35, and threw it to Dick Kinney for the two-point conversion. This gave Maine the lead, 22-12.

Later, the Rams got the ball on Maine's 40-yard line. Vento, Kapusinsky and Paul Faulkner led the offensive march for Rhody's last touchdown, with Faulkner going over from one foot out. Faulkner scored the final two points taking a pitchout from Pariseau and going around left end, bringing the final score to 22-20.

Soccer Team Loses To Brown

A squad of 26 players on the URI soccer team are making preparations for their second game of the season when they meet Brown University's team at Kingston on Monday, Oct. 2. The Rams, who are playing their first season as a varsity team, opened their campaign with a 3-2 victory over Rhode Island College last Saturday.

Coach Bill Baird has a nine-game schedule. In addition to the Rhode Island College and Brown games, the schedule lists: Oct. 7, New Bedford Tech, at Kingston; Oct. 17, Babson Institute, at Boston; Oct. 21, Massachusetts, at Amherst; Oct. 22, Brandeis, at Kingston; Nov. 4, at New Bedford; Nov. 11, at New London and Nov. 18, at Connecticut, at Kingston.

The URI varsity soccer team last Monday to Brown 7-1. The URI goal was scored by Tom Saucer through a series of wind sprays lasting a full five minutes.

"A Good Place to Sleep and Eat"

RAMbling Along . . .

by Alan Birkenfeld

The spectators came to cheer that warm Saturday afternoon when the Rams met the Black Bears. The gladiators were in the middle of the arena, armed with helmets, pads, skill and guts.

As the fortunes of the home team arose, the cry for blood ran through the heavens. There were many opportunities . . . Kapusinsky intercepting his second pass of the game and running the ball back into scoring position . . . Vento carrying the ball over from the one-foot line for the initial score . . . Hoder catching a pass for the second TD . . . Faulkner running over left guard for the third score, followed by another run, this time for an additional two points. And yet, there was quiet.

The gladiators fought a bloodless, but inspiring battle, some falling victim to the opponents' swords—Ward, Pariseau, and Woodbury. But if one was looking for a thunderous roar, they would be disillusioned—it was nowhere to be found—there was only a deafening quiet heard from the Rams forces in the eastern sector of the stands. The crowd seemed to be holding their thumbs down, a symbol reserved for those athletes who don't meet the specifications of their admirers. The team did look good; the crowd did not.

Dave Stenhouse, former URI hurler, pitched this past summer for Jersey City in the International League. With two weeks remaining in the schedule, Dave had compiled a 13-11 record. There is a good possibility that Dave will be going to spring training with the Cincinnati Redlegs next Spring.

Roger Boucher, a sophomore guard on the University of Maine team, kicked his fourth and fifth consecutive point-after-touchdown kicks this past Saturday.

Harriers Lose to Springfield

New Hampshire Here Saturday

The Springfield Gymnasts defeated the URI Rams in a dual meet at Kingston last Saturday, 23-32, despite another victory by Rhody's Bob Lund, his second in a row.

After Lund, the Gymnasts captured the next four places and sewed up the victory.

Lund ran his usual race, getting out in front early to stay. The Ram ace posted a time of 23 minutes and 25 seconds, just four seconds off the track record, in finishing 250 yards ahead of the nearest Springfield runner.

Rhody also received inspired performances from Marshall Gershen-blatt and Karl Steimle, both of whom were running with minor leg injuries.

Rhode Island coach Tom Russell stated that the meet was a vast improvement from last week and a Rhody victory will be forthcoming shortly.

Summary:

Springfield (23)
Randall 2; McDonald 3; Merritt 4; Chaffee 5; Petty 9; Flanagan 12; Gervais 13, and Arnould 17.
Rhode Island (32)
Lund 1; Gerstenblatt 6; Steimle 7; Chamberlain 8; Marandola 10; Hill 11; Drew 14; Brown 15; DiBattista 16; Fuller 18.

URI Athlete

Marv Glaubach

Marvin Glaubach, a junior tackle on this year's edition of the varsity football team, has been selected Athlete of the Week for his outstanding play in the game against Maine. Marv played almost the entire game on offense and threw several key blocks to help score Rhody's three touchdowns. On defense, he helped considerably to contain Maine's fine runner, Dave Cloutier.

Athletics has formed a big part of Marv's life for a long time. Back at Thomas Jefferson High School, in Brooklyn, N. Y., Marv played baseball one year; tennis, two years; was a member of the swimming team for one year, and was on the varsity football team three years, serving as captain during his senior year. During his senior season on the football team, he made the first team all-city on four New York newspapers as offensive guard and defensive tackle. He also made honorable mention on the all-metropolitan team. Upon graduation, Marv was voted the "outstanding athlete of his senior class." Marv's high school coach, incidentally, was Moe Finklestein, a teammate of Coach Chironna at Bucknell.

While here at Rhody, Marv has won his freshman numerals and a varsity letter in football. He is a member of Phi Mu Delta, the Rhode Island Club and the Vigilantes.

Marv is studying physical education here at URI. Upon graduation, he hopes to go to grad school to study physio-therapy for two years. Congratulations, Marv Glaubach, on becoming Athlete of the Week.

New Hampshire Here Saturday

The University of New Hampshire's football team, rated as the possible spoiler in the Yankee Conference title race, will make its first conference appearance this weekend when it meets URI at Kingston.

The Wildcats, with Dick Mozquita, a first team selection and Bo Dickson, second conference choice, returning, started slowly but are expected to be in high gear when they meet the Rams. Last year, the Wildcats prevailed 13-6 at Durham and in 36 meetings have won 22, lost 11, and tied 3.

Last year the Wildcats finished in fourth place in the Yankee Conference with a 2-2 record. They were first in total defense and first in forward passing offense. Mozquita, a half back last year, was the individual rushing leader in the YC, gaining 336 yards in 46 carries for a 7.3 average.

Fullback Ed Mullen was in seventh place, gaining 151 yards in 34 carries, for a 4.4 yardage. Bo Dickson was the leading passer in the YC with 28 completions in 44 attempts for a .636 pct. and three touchdowns. With eleven lettermen returning, the Wildcats hope to improve on last year's 4-3 record. Thus far, they are 0-2. Last week, they gained only two first downs in losing to Dartmouth, 22-3.

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Rock Sigafos did.

When Rock left Cut and Shoot, Pa., he said to his sweetheart, a simple country lass named Tess d' Urbevilles, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may the moths get my new tweed jacket!"

Then he clutched Tess to his bosom and planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Fata Morgana, a girl of such sophistication, such poise, such savoir-faire as Rock had never beheld. She spoke knowingly of Franz Kafka, she hummed Mozart, she smoked Marlboros.

Now, Rock didn't know Franz Kafka from Pancho Villa, or Mozart from James K. Polk, but Marlboros he knew full well. He knew that anyone who smoked Marlboros was modern and advanced and as studded with brains as a ham with cloves. Good sense tells you that you can't beat Marlboro's exclusive selectrate filter, and you never could beat Marlboro's fine flavor. This Rock knew.

So all day he followed Fata around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka, and then in the evening he went back to the dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Tess:

Dear Rock,

Ua hula had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutty stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Tess

P.S.—I can do my Hula Hoop 3,000 times.

Well sir, Rock thought about Tess and then he thought about Fata and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Tess; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Fata.

Rock, being above all things honorable, returned forthwith to his home town and walked up to Tess and looked her in the eye and said manly, "I do not love you any more. I love a girl named Fata Morgana. You can hit me in the stomach with all your might if you like."

"That's okay, hey," said Tess amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

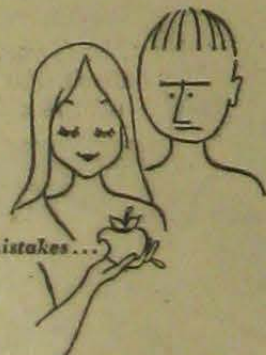

"What is his name?" asked Rock.

"Franz Kafka," said Tess.

"A splendid fellow," said Rock and shook Tess's hand, and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Rock and Fata often double-date with Franz and Tess and have heaps of fun. Franz can do the Hula Hoop 6,000 times.

Sgt. Cordon Retires Post

Master sergeant Frederick W. Cordon of the URI military department was honored at a retirement ceremony held last Tuesday by the brigade of ROTC cadets. Sgt. Cordon was presented with a certificate of appreciation for his years of "outstanding service" in his Army career. The citation was signed by General G. H. Decker, chief of staff, U. S. Army.

Sgt. Cordon enlisted in 1941, was commissioned in 1942, was promoted to lieutenant colonel in 1952 and re-enlisted in 1954 as a master sergeant when he came to URI. He is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. His retirement as a lieutenant colonel in the reserves became effective as of last Saturday.

Since coming to URI, Sgt. Cordon has been taking courses in business education. He is enrolled as a full-time student and will graduate with the class of '63.

This special rate is good from Tuesday, Sept. 19, 1961 to Friday June 9, 1962. The special rates are not good for any Saturday or before 2 p. m. on any Sunday, he said.

Each student must sign the register at the desk, show his ID card, and pay the fee before playing golf he said.

To get to the course follow route 138 west for 3.2 miles from the entrance to Keaney Gym. Turn left at the sign and follow the road as indicated by the signs, he said.

hair stylist, at a coffee hour on Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 4 p. m. in the Memorial Union Lounge.

Miss Moore will discuss trends in hair styling, fashion and make-up with special emphasis on the problems of the college girls.

LUCKY STRIKE
presents:
LUCKY TUFFERS

"THE FRESHMEN"

SOPHOMORES, JUNIORS, SENIORS: DON'T TREAD ON FRESHMEN! They have been known to become employers. A freshman wants, above all, to be inaugurated into your world. Walk him to class, teach him longhand, explain how the Ph.D. wears his tassel, introduce him to Luckies (and tell him how college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular). You'll be a bigger man, and you'll be able to borrow Luckies from him any time.

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!
